- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Easy
- Bloom Level: Remembering
- Marks: 5

Question: Describe the setting, speaker, and main activity in the poem 'A Little Bird I Am'.

- Answer Key: In the poem 'A Little Bird I Am', the speaker is a small bird that has been shut away from the open sky ('fields of air') and placed inside a cage. Instead of crying or complaining, the bird sits peacefully in its cage and sings sweet songs all day long. It directs its song toward God, who placed it in the cage, finding complete happiness in singing to please its Creator.

Question: Explain why the bird is happy to be a prisoner in a cage.

- Answer Key: The bird is happy ('well pleased a prisoner to be') because it believes that its situation is ordained by God. It loves God above all else and knows that sitting in the cage and singing pleases Him. Because fulfilling God's pleasure is its highest desire, being in a cage becomes a source of joy rather than sadness.

Question 3

Question: Detail what God does for the bird in the poem, according to the second stanza.

- Answer Key: According to the second stanza, God caught the bird and bound its 'wandering wing', placing it in the cage. However, God does not ignore the bird; instead, He bends down with loving tenderness to listen to its song. Knowing that God actively listens to its singing fills the bird with happiness to sing the whole day long.

Question: Analyze how 'A Little Bird I Am' explores the concept of spiritual freedom.

- Answer Key: The poem demonstrates that true freedom is an internal spiritual state rather than an external physical condition. Physical bars may bind the bird's wings and shut it from the sky, but they cannot cage its heart, faith, or voice. By directing its song toward God, the bird transcends physical confinement and experiences ultimate spiritual freedom.

Question: How does the bird turn a potential negative experience into a positive life purpose?

- Answer Key: Instead of viewing the cage as a cruel prison, the bird views it as a private stage provided by God where it can perform its lifelong duty of singing praise.

Question 34

- Question ID: BK02_CH11_LA_034
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Analyzing
- Marks: 5

Question: Contrast the bird's past life in the sky with its present life in the cage.

- Answer Key: In the past, its wing wandered freely through the sky; in the present, its wing is bound in a cage, yet its joy is higher now because it lives directly to please God.

Question 35

- Question ID: BK02_CH11_LA_035
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Understanding
- Marks: 5

Question: Why is 'pleasing God' the ultimate motivation for the bird?

- Answer Key: Because the bird realizes that pleasing its Creator gives eternal meaning to its life, far exceeding temporary physical freedom.

Question 36

- Question ID: BK02_CH11_LA_036
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium

- Bloom Level: Evaluating
- Marks: 5

Question: How does the poem address the universal human experience of isolation?

- Answer Key: It shows that isolation can be transformed into a productive, peaceful time of reflection, prayer, and artistic expression rather than loneliness.

- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Applying
- Marks: 5

Question: What safety or ethical discussion can be introduced alongside this poem?

- Answer Key: Teachers can clarify that while the poem uses a cage as a spiritual metaphor, real birds should be loved and protected in their natural free habitats.

Question 40

- Question ID: BK02_CH11_LA_040
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Creating
- Marks: 5

Question: Construct a short creative poem from God's perspective replying to the caged bird.

- Answer Key: 'I hear your song, my little bird,

The sweetest praise I've ever heard!

Though caged your wing upon the earth,

Your loving heart has endless worth!

Question 41

- Question ID: BK02_CH11_LA_041
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Hard
- Bloom Level: Evaluating
- Marks: 5

Question: Critique the philosophical tension between free will and divine providence in the poem.

- Answer Key: The poem resolves the tension between free will and divine providence through loving surrender. While the bird's free flight is restricted by divine providence ('placed me there'), the bird uses its free will to choose joy, singing, and devotion rather than bitterness.
