Question: Describe the plot and story events in Ogden Nash's poem 'The Cat'.

- Answer Key: In the poem 'The Cat' by Ogden Nash, a person gets married, buys a house, and eventually finds a mouse living inside. After family members complain ('words regarding mice'), they quickly get a cat ('kitty in a trice') to catch the mouse. However, by 2:00 a.m., a funny twist happens: the mouse stays quietly inside the house, while the cat is locked outside making noise. Lying in bed, the spouse humorously suggests that they should have gotten another mouse instead of the cat.

Question: Explain the humorous twist that happens at 2:00 a.m. in the poem.

- Answer Key: The humorous twist occurs because people expect a cat to stay inside, hunt the mouse, and keep the home quiet. Instead, at 2:00 a.m., the roles are completely reversed: the mouse is inside the house sitting in total silence, while the cat is locked outside making annoying noises. This unexpected turn of events turns a serious pest problem into a hilarious midnight situation.

Question: Why does the spouse suggest getting 'another mouse' instead of a cat?

- Answer Key: The spouse makes this funny suggestion because at 2:00 a.m., the cat outside is making noise and disturbing their sleep, whereas the mouse inside is completely silent and causing no noise at all. Out of sleep-deprived frustration, the spouse sarcastically decides that a quiet mouse is much better to have around at night than a noisy cat!

Question: How does Ogden Nash use rhyming pairs to make the poem catchy and fun?

- Answer Key: Ogden Nash uses simple, bouncy AABB rhyming couplets:

house / mouse
mice / trice
thereabouts / out
cot / not spouse / mouse

These simple rhymes create a fast musical rhythm that makes the funny story easy to remember and enjoyable to read aloud.

Question: Analyze how Ogden Nash uses structural irony to create comedy in 'The Cat'.

- Answer Key: Structural irony occurs when the outcome of a situation is exact opposite of what was intended. The owner buys a cat to eliminate a quiet mouse. Instead, by 2 a.m., the predator (cat) is locked outside making noise, while the prey (mouse) enjoys quiet sanctuary inside. This reversal of expected roles creates sharp comedic irony.

Question: Examine the role of rhyming couplets in delivering comic punchlines.

- Answer Key: The poem uses an AABCCDDEE couplet structure. Each couplet sets up a rhythmic momentum that leads directly to a witty conclusion. The final couplet ('Instead of kitty, says your spouse / You should have got another mouse') uses the predictable rhyme of 'spouse/mouse' to deliver a sudden, hilarious punchline.

Question: Contrast the character of the mouse with the character of the cat in the poem.

- Answer Key: The mouse is an uninvited guest that settles in quietly and stays inside without making trouble at night; the cat is a purchased helper that ends up outside making loud late-night noise.

Question 33

- Question ID: BK02_CH12_LA_033
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Analyzing
- Marks: 5

Question: How does the setting of 'cot at 2 a.m.' contribute to the poem's atmosphere?

- Answer Key: Middle-of-the-night settings evoke quiet sleepiness, making any unexpected noise outside feel dramatically amplified and absurdly funny to a tired person lying in bed.

Question 34

- Question ID: BK02_CH12_LA_034
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Evaluating
- Marks: 5

Question: What makes Ogden Nash's humor accessible across different age groups?

- Answer Key: His humor relies on universal everyday situations—pets, household mix-ups, and funny family dialogue—that appeal equally to 7-year-olds and adults.

Question 35

- Question ID: BK02_CH12_LA_035
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Understanding
- Marks: 5

Question: Explain why getting a cat 'in a trice' represents hasty decision making.

- Answer Key: It shows that as soon as complaints arose, the owner rushed to buy a cat without considering whether the cat would actually stay inside or make noise at night.

Question 36

- Question ID: BK02_CH12_LA_036

- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Analyzing
- Marks: 5

Question: How does the poem subvert traditional animal tropes in children's literature?

- Answer Key: Traditional literature depicts cats as clever mouse-hunters and mice as noisy destructive pests; Nash subverts this by making the mouse silent and the cat noisy and locked out.

Question 37

- Question ID: BK02_CH12_LA_037
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Understanding
- Marks: 5

Question: What is the significance of the word 'eventually' in line 2?

- Answer Key: It suggests that no matter how nice a new house is, domestic problems like mice are an inevitable part of home ownership.

Question 38

- Question ID: BK02_CH12_LA_038
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Evaluating
- Marks: 5

Question: How does the spouse's dialogue provide closure to the poem?

- Answer Key: The spouse's witty remark summarizes the absurdity of the entire situation, delivering a satisfying comic ending that resolves the poem.

Question 39

- Difficulty: Medium
- Bloom Level: Creating

- Marks: 5

Question: Construct a 4-line sequel stanza describing what happens next morning.

- Answer Key: 'Morning comes and the sun shines bright,

The mouse goes to sleep after a quiet night;
While kitty slips in through the kitchen door,
And falls asleep right on the floor!'

Question 41

- Question ID: BK02_CH12_LA_041

- Type: Long Answer

- Difficulty: Hard

- Bloom Level: Evaluating

- Marks: 5

Question: Critique the satirical representation of domestic problem-solving in modern light verse.

- Answer Key: Nash satirizes the human tendency to over-engineer solutions for simple problems. Rather than dealing with a quiet mouse calmly, the owner rushes to introduce a predator (cat), resulting in secondary disruption (midnight noise) that exposes the absurdity of hasty remedies.

Question 42

- Question ID: BK02_CH12_LA_042

- Type: Long Answer

- Bloom Level: Analyzing

- Marks: 5

Question: Deconstruct the comic architecture of 'The Cat' across its five stanzas.

- Answer Key: 1. Stanza 1 (L1-2): Domestic setup -> House + Mouse.

2. Stanza 2 (L3-4): Problem escalation -> Complaints + Cat.

3. Stanza 3 (L5-6): Spatial reversal -> Mouse in + Cat out.

4. Stanza 4 (L7-8): Acoustic contrast -> Mouse quiet + Cat noisy.

5. Stanza 5 (L9-10): Absurd resolution -> Spouse's punchline.

- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Hard
- Bloom Level: Evaluating
- Marks: 5

Question: Evaluate the educational value of teaching lighthearted humorous poetry alongside classic literature.

- Answer Key: Lighthearted poetry breaks the misconception that literature must always be serious or difficult. It builds reading pleasure, vocabulary, phonics awareness, and creative thinking by showing that language can be a tool for play and laughter.

Question 46

- Question ID: BK02_CH12_LA_046
- Type: Long Answer
- Difficulty: Hard
- Bloom Level: Analyzing
- Marks: 5

Question: Analyze how acoustic contrast (silence vs noise) drives the narrative tension in 10 lines.

- Answer Key: Silence represents peace; noise represents disruption. By contrasting the silent mouse inside with the noisy cat outside at 2 a.m., Nash creates instant narrative tension that resolves into laughter.

Question 47
