Question: Write a simple summary of Chapter 01 'The Rats Who Ate the Iron Balance'.

- Answer Key: A poor boy named Dilip wanted to travel to a foreign land to earn money. He borrowed money from a rich village Mahajan and gave his heavy iron scales as security. After a few years, Dilip returned with money and asked for his scales back. The greedy Mahajan lied that mice had eaten the iron scales. Dilip stayed calm and walked home quietly. A few days later, Dilip met the Mahajan's son, invited him home, and locked him inside safely. Dilip then told the Mahajan that an eagle had carried his son away into the sky. When the Mahajan said an eagle could not carry a heavy boy, Dilip replied that it was possible in the same way mice could eat iron scales. The Mahajan felt deeply ashamed, apologized, and returned the scales. Dilip then brought the boy safely back to his father.

Question: Describe the character of Dilip in detail based on the story.

- Answer Key: Dilip is the main hero of the story. He is a poor, hardworking young boy who travels to a foreign land to earn money for his family. He is honest because he returns to pay back his loan. When cheated by the greedy Mahajan, Dilip does not lose his temper or engage in physical fighting. Instead, he shows great intelligence, self-control, and cleverness. He creates a smart plan to teach the Mahajan a lesson, keeps the Mahajan's son completely safe, and successfully recovers his iron scales. Dilip represents honesty, wisdom, and peaceful problem-solving.

Question: Describe the character of the Mahajan and how his character changes.

- Answer Key: The Mahajan is a rich money lender in the village. At the beginning of the story, he is greedy, dishonest, and selfish. When Dilip returns to pay back his debt, the Mahajan lies that mice ate the heavy iron scales so he can keep them for himself. He takes advantage of Dilip's poor status. However, when Dilip outsmarts him with the eagle story, the Mahajan recognizes his own foolish lie. He feels deeply ashamed, apologizes for his dishonesty, returns the scales, and learns a valuable moral lesson about integrity.

Question: Explain the trick Dilip used to teach the Mahajan a lesson.

- Answer Key: Dilip used a clever psychological trick based on matching logic. He met the Mahajan's son near the river, invited him home, and locked him safely inside. Then Dilip went to the Mahajan crying and claimed an eagle flew away with his son. When the Mahajan angrily pointed out that an eagle carrying a boy is impossible, Dilip pointed out that an eagle carrying a boy is just as possible as mice eating heavy iron scales. This clever counter-lie instantly exposed the Mahajan's dishonesty.

Question: Why did the Mahajan's lie about the mice eating iron scales fail?

- Answer Key: The Mahajan's lie failed because solid iron metal is far too hard for mice or rats to chew or eat. It was a completely absurd and physically impossible lie. Dilip immediately recognized that the Mahajan was cheating him, and later used an equally impossible lie about an eagle lifting a child to force the Mahajan to admit that both claims were absurd.

Question: What moral lessons does the story teach us about greed and dishonesty?

- Answer Key: The story teaches that greed leads to dishonest behavior, which destroys trust and damages reputation. It proves that wrongdoers cannot get away with bad actions because truth and cleverness will eventually catch up with them. It also shows that being honest and dealing fairly with others brings lasting peace and respect.

Question: How did Dilip ensure that no harm came to the Mahajan's son?

- Answer Key: Dilip treated the Mahajan's son with kindness. He invited the boy to his home politely and kept him locked safely inside a room. Dilip did not hurt, scold, or scare the child. As soon as the Mahajan confessed his lie and returned the iron scales, Dilip immediately brought the boy back home safe and sound.

Question: Why is clever wit better than anger when dealing with unfair people?

- Answer Key: Anger often leads to physical fights, harsh words, and further trouble without solving the underlying problem. Clever wit, on the other hand, allows a person to remain calm, think logically, expose the lie peacefully, and convince the other person to correct their wrongdoing without violence.

Question: What role did the iron scales play in the financial agreement between Dilip and Mahajan?

- Answer Key: Because Dilip was poor and had no money, the Mahajan required a guarantee before lending money. Dilip gave his heavy iron scales as collateral or security. This meant that if Dilip failed to return, the Mahajan could keep the scales; but once Dilip repaid the loan, the Mahajan was legally and morally required to return them.

Question: Why did the Mahajan feel deeply ashamed at the end of the story?

- Answer Key: The Mahajan felt deeply ashamed because Dilip's clever logic trapped him completely. The Mahajan had insisted that an eagle carrying a boy was impossible, but by saying so, he admitted that his own lie about mice eating iron scales was also impossible. Realizing how greedy and foolish he looked, his conscience made him feel ashamed.

Question: Discuss how the theme of 'Tit for Tat' is portrayed in Chapter 01.

- Answer Key: 'Tit for Tat' is portrayed not as malicious revenge, but as a teaching mechanism. Dilip mirrored the Mahajan's absurd lie (rats eating iron) with his own absurd lie (eagle taking a boy). By placing the Mahajan in the exact same logical dilemma, Dilip forced him to experience the injustice firsthand.

Question: Deconstruct the ethical dilemma presented in Dilip's stratagem of locking the child.

- Answer Key: Dilip faces an ethical dilemma: submit to unjust theft or use deception to reclaim his property. By choosing temporary, harmless detention of the son, Dilip minimizes harm while engineering a psychological mirror that compels moral restitution. The ethics of his action are justified by his non-violent intent, protection of the child, and immediate release upon justice.

Question: Analyze the structural symmetry of the narrative in Chapter 01.

- Answer Key: The plot exhibits perfect structural symmetry: Act 1 presents Transaction & Pledge; Act 2 presents Deceit (Mice eat Iron); Act 3 presents Counter-Deceit (Eagle takes Boy); Act 4 presents Logical Confrontation; and Act 5 presents Dual Restitution (Scales returned, Boy returned). This symmetry reinforces the moral law of cause and effect.
